Each year the Victorian Honour Roll of Women recognises and celebrates truly remarkable women across Victoria, who through their vision, leadership, commitment and hard work, have made an exceptional contribution to their communities or areas of expertise.

Since its launch in 2001, 498 women have been included on the Honour Roll. Women have been nominated for their contribution in a diverse range of fields including health, science, law, social justice, sport, arts, media and education as well as their involvement in ethnic and Indigenous communities.

Please note that nominations for the 2014 Victorian Honour Roll for Women close on

Friday, 27 September 2013

This year submissions for the 2014 Victorian Honour Roll of Women are to be completed on line. You can enter your responses directly on the form, attach up to five (5) supporting documents and a nominee’s digital photo must be included.

Successful candidates will be inducted during the International Women’s Day celebrations in March 2014.
